St John first aid classes now local

St John (NSW) is now holding regular first aid courses in the Brighton area, making it easier for people to get to and from the classes. Classes now held at Brighton Le Sands RSL, include Senior First Aid, Senior First Aid Recertification and Caring for Kids.

St John (NSW) General Manager- Training, Robyn Galwey says that St John is always looking for ways to better service the community.

“People are becoming increasingly committed to learning first aid. By expanding into suburban areas St John can offer additional classes and take them to locations that are more convenient for the participants,” she said.

“St John research shows that 78% of the population do not have a current first aid certificate. This figure is startling as first aid is quick and simple to learn, and can help save a life.

“Last year St John provided first aid training to more than 70 000 people in NSW. This year, with the additional classes and locations being offered, we plan on increasing this number and ensuring that more people are able to access suitable first aid training. St John will continue to explore additional suburbs and venues to hold regular first aid classes,” Ms Galwey said.

The Brighton Le Sands RSL is located at 351 Bay Street Brighton Le Sands.
