

OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH & SAFETY REGULATION 2001

First in First Aid

First Aid Risk Assessment

St John can ensure that you meet your obligations under the new Occupational Health and Safety Regulation 2001 with regard to identification of procedures when dealing with any emergency situation that may arise.

Every workplace has its own specific hazards. St John assessors are fully conversant with the new Regulation and can provide an onsite assessment of your workplace's potential risks and needs. Once a risk assessment of your particular work environment has been completed, St John can help you to develop first aid strategies and procedures to deal with emergency situations.

St John also offers a full range of quality first aid courses and equipment tailored specifically to the needs of your workplace.

Our restocking service ensures you maintain compliance.

Our nationally qualified trainers focus on hands-on first aid skills. These skills provide individuals, companies and organisations with the confidence to know what to do in an emergency, in keeping with the requirements of the Regulation 2001.

To find out more about how St John can ensure you meet your obligations under the Regulation 2001, contact St John Products & Services on (02) 8788 1300.

Types of Industry and First Aid Requirements for Occupational Health and Safety Regulation 2001

Construction Site

Number of Employees	Facility	Qualification
100+	First Aid Room, A kit, B kit	Occupational First Aid Certificate
25 – 100	A kit	Senior First Aid
Less than 25	B kit

Construction work is anything to do with building, renovating, alteration, repair, maintenance and demolition of all types of buildings and also the supply of sewerage, drainage and water and energy supplies. (OH&S Regs Chapter 1, Clause 3).

Other Places of Work

Number of Employees	Facility	Qualification
200+	First Aid Room, A kit, B kit	Occupational First Aid certificate
100+	A kit	Senior First Aid certificate
10 – 100	B kit	If more than 25 persons employed, Senior First aid certificate
Less than 10	C kit

St John recommends a first aid risk assessment for all workplaces.

Employers have legal responsibilities for ensuring adequate first aid provisions for employees. In addition, Section 8(2) of the OH&S Act requires that all persons in a workplace other than employees are not exposed to risks.